

Importance of quality education and moral values in each student's life for the betterment of society.

One must understand the true meaning of being educated since it has become our right to be educated doesn't mean that you and I have to take it lightly without being hungry for it. The food that's been served on your plate might be less consumed, and less valued when you aren't hungry for it. The same can be applied to education as well. the state of being hungry need not have to do only with food for physical growth but also for mental growth. While food helps your physical growth, education helps your mental growth and development. before it gets too late to understand the value in the autumn when you fall. You are wrong in believing it as a force of compulsion without knowing the value in your season of spring as you are blooming. Learning is valuable only when it comes from an inner desire to understand and grow.

Being educated is a state of mind not a bunch of certificates. The purpose of education is not aimed at obtaining only a degree but the acquisition of supreme knowledge and necessary value-based teaching which results in character building and social improvement too. You have many ways to earn marks, you can memorize and forget whatever has been taught or by any other method remember this is not the ultimate purpose of education. This does not mean that marks are worthless in fact, marks are very important because they give you recognition for your good performance and also motivate you to do better next time. You are on the right track to getting your ultimate goal of education to be achieved if you are not merely focusing on accumulating the quantity alone but on the quality of being educated. An increase in quantity may not bring quality along but an increase in quality is assured along with quantity, as quality will not be satisfied with learning to answer only 'what' but also why and how. Remember your quantity may help you in surviving but your quality will help you live.

Albert Einstein once said, "try not to be a man of success, but rather try to become a man of value" What is the use of urbanization and modernization when the moral values of students are degrading day by day in our society? Education must never make you feel superior or inferior to one another rather you must feel the same for others the way, you feel for yourself with love and respect. If you are educated to be respected then, you aren't really if you fail to give it back for why you are educated, it is to treat others with love and respect irrespective of religion, caste, creed, gender, or race. Only then you stand as an example to society that you are educated not only by being rich with money but also with knowledge and values. A famous quote says if wealth is lost nothing is lost if health is lost something is lost, when the character is lost all is lost. So be wise in choosing whether for the one which is limited, temporary, unsatisfied with only material success or for the one which is unlimited, permanent, and satisfied by diving into truth.
